Helpful Hints and Tidbits

- Write PBS into your School Improvement Plan. This will allow you to use SIP money towards PBS.
- Write a grant to Safe and Drug Free Schools.
- Sam’s Club donates $ to schools for their employees that volunteer.
- Washington Mutual has a program where students can set up a savings account for their school. When students deposit $ in their account Washington Mutual will match the amount in donations to the school.
- Most school districts have an employee whose job responsibility is to find grants for schools. Some school districts have the information on their district website or via a pamphlet that goes out to the school.
- Establish business and community partnerships with local area businesses and ask for donations. You should draft a formal letter about who you are, what school you are with, what PBS is, and why you need the donations.
- Banks often have an abundance of logo merchandise, ask if they will donate such items for your school store.
- Most Publix stores have $100 set aside for each school for school products. Check with your local Publix.
- Make a wish list for parents to donate and send home with the students. You might be surprised at what your parents are willing to donate.
- Invite the media (TV, radio and/or newspaper) on days when you are doing a school-wide reward, teaching your students your expectations/rewards, etc. Make sure you include in the news story items your school needs for the reward days.
- Contact your local radio stations to see if they will donate shirts/hats with their logo. See if they will come out to your school and do a live broadcast.
- Have fundraisers dedicated to PBS. Some schools sell hamburgers and hotdogs at local sporting events. On your campus the band/sports boosters may already do this. So, ask them how to get started or see if they want to combine efforts.

- One school allowed their kids to use their school dollars as well as cash at their school carnival.
- Does your school collect box tops for education? If your answer is no then start a program. http://www.boxtops4education.com/
- Staples Office Supplies stores will donate $1 to a school of your choice for every used ink cartridge returned to their store.
- If you have a link from your school’s website to Barnes and Nobles each time someone uses the link to buy a product from Barnes and Nobles money will be donated back to your school.
